You ought to know by now

Baby when our hearts awoke
Think of all the rules we broke
In the name of love we hoped Little did we know

Darling all the time we spent Ignoring all the consequences And hiding from big evidence Hoping things would change

But the yearning grew like the loneliness of a castaway To be near to you was the only thing in my heart each day Keeping me alive till your rescue came

Honey you mean everything to me You ought to know by now Love means everything You ought to know by now Only love can bring happiness

Wishful thinking spent in vain What to loose and what to gain All the guilt and all the pain seemed to come away

And baby when our hearts awoke Think of all the rules we broke In the name of love we spoke Little did we know

But the hope was there like a ray of sun on a cloudy day
Any change from impossibility to the only way
Love can conquer all
And its here to stay

Honey you mean everything to me You ought to know by now Love means everything You ought to know by now Only love can bring happiness

You ought to know by now Love means everything You ought to know by now Only love can bring happiness
