White girl, in a perfect world You'd trust in your lover Will boys ever be boys again

Blond boy, in a perfect world you'd know if You loved her Will girls ever be girls again

Black boy, in a perfect world there'd Be understanding Still you're perfect 'cause you love your girl

Black girl, in a perfect world there'd Be no demanding Still you're perfect 'cause you love your man

It don't make no difference
Boys of London, girls of Memphis
We are all a revolution in this jaded institution

In the New York times To the L. A. coast They go bump to bump

In the perfect world For the perfect boy and the perfect girl They go bump to bump in the perfect world

Black girl, in a perfect world you'd know That I love ya And everyone would understand

White boy, in a perfect world you'd Need no protection And love would still be something in heart

White girl, in a perfect world there'd Be understanding And boys would be boys again

Black girl, in a perfect world you'd know That I love ya And everyone would understand

It don't make no difference
Boys of London, girls of Memphis
We are all a revolution in this jaded institution

In the New York times To the L. A. coast They go bump to bump

In the perfect world

For the perfect boy and the perfect girl

They go bump to bump in the perfect world
