

Ächtung, Baby!

Rome

We worship not some flashes
That never shone bright
We worship not the ashes
Of what once burned alight
We preserve the fire
We protect the flame
Our gods eternal
Go by different names

The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling
Before that king of mine
The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling
Before that king of mine

We worship not some flashes
That never shone bright
We worship not the ashes
Of what once burned alight
We preserve the fire
We protect the flame
Our gods eternal
Go by different names

The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling
Before that king of mine
The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling
Before that king of mine

Always
Always

The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling
Before that king of mine
The birds have the eagle
Beasts have the lion
And I shall be kneeling

Always
Always (Always)
