

Particle And Wave

Rosanne Cash

Light is particle and wave
Our histories written large upon the page
The star in middle age
The love that fades to black
Once revealed, won't be taken back

Light nothing can escape
The ignorance we once forgave
In the future if we don't decide to change
The things we cannot save
But it slows to shine upon your face

We owe everything
Everything
To this rainbow of suffering

Light is particle and wave
Reflections of this place
Refractions of our grace
It reveals what we won't dare
And it's slow so I can hold you near
