

I Wonder Where You Are Tonight

Rose Royce

I've sailed over the ocean, and I've traveled many lands
Even flown in the big bird in the sky looking down from heaven's den

And as I go from town to town drifting like the wind
Loneliness is my company and hope is my friend

And I wonder where you are tonight

They said you wanted to be a star and see the big city lights
So you jumped in the car with your guitar, promised you're always right

I hear your songs on the radio, your big publicity
And all that we had, boy, is drifting in the wind

And I wonder where you are tonight

Wish I never said goodbye
I just can't stand these lonely, lonely nights
Sometimes I break down and I cry
I'm just drifting in the wind, looking for a friend

Sailed over the ocean and I've traveled many, many lands
No matter how far I try to slip away, my heart just won't let me win

All those memory of you and me just linger in my mind
And I, I just can't forget you, boy, and this feeling we left behind

And I wonder where you are tonight

Baby, baby, I wonder where you are tonight
I wonder where you are tonight
Sometimes I break down and cry
I wish you'd never said goodbye
How I wonder, ooh I wonder
