

If it was right to be believing, and write his name in blood and then I met him when I died, well I'd have it out with god but if it means degrading scenes and sanctioning crusade I'd know we couldn't stand man to man without feeling afraid
If it was wrong for not believing, in fairytale facade
and then I met him when I died, well I'd apologise to dog But if it meant I went down on my knees well where's the spirit gone where's the love you're all talking of when you can't stand man to man?
Man to man
When you can't stand man to man.
I find it hard to believe, in these 'gospels' that I've heard the forked tongue of the bible belt, the ayatollah's word I don't believe most anything spoken by anyone as hell's fanatic paranoids fire heaven's loaded gun
If it was right to be believing, then it must be in this that difference is beautiful, and living it is bliss, there are no teams
there is no side that life on earth is done by living the love you're only talking of by standing man to man
Man to man
