

Rest in Peace

Royal Hunt

You used to think, I'll get it done
If not today, why not tomorrow?
Whatever, man, I'm not the one
To rue and ever dwell in sorrow
A dollar short, a day too late
And that's your really tragic story
So don't give up and keep the faith
Won't work at all, and now I'm sorry, sorry

Rest in peace
With every single dream you've ever had
Rest in peace
Below a muddy clad
Rest in peace
Unshackled from these heavy chains of time
Rest in peace
Fate's turning on a dime

You've got it right, sometimes it feels Like everyone's so tense, so driven
But every single second kills
A little bit of time we're given
Too old to die, too young, get real, get real
You had your chance, but now it's over
Too proud to beg, too dumb to steal, to steal
And every day you're sinking, and every day you're sinking lower, lower, lower, lower

Rest in peace
With every single dream you've ever had
Rest in peace
Below a muddy clad
Rest in peace
Unshackled from these heavy chains of time
Rest in peace
Fate's turning on a dime, on a dime

Whole way to
The bottom
This trail is Well trodden
Forgiven
Forgotten

Rest in peace
With every single dream you've ever had
Rest in peace
Below a muddy clad, a muddy clad
Rest in peace
Unshackled from these heavy chains in time
Rest in peace
Fate's turning on a dime, on a dime

Rest in peace