

And We'll Sing

Runrig

I am going away, in the hour of my days
The warm knowing place still holds you
I will see you again, in the soft summer rain
Where the hills turn again, to the ocean

Take my heart, take my hand, on this ground where we stand
With the last of the land, in our glory
We are old, we are young
We are one, we are strong
And we walk ever on, to our glory

And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the ties that bind forever
We will sing

Had we but understood, had we but loved as we should Lock the brands of the girl, from the burning
So lay me down in your fields
On the pastures of green
Where the clear running streams are flowing

And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the ties that bind forever
We will sing
And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the ties that bind forever
We will sing

I am going away, in the hour of my days
The warm knowing place still holds you
Though we wonder and go we will cherish our own
On that long road home I'll be waiting

And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the ties that bind forever
We will sing
And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the ties that bind forever
We will sing
And we'll sing, and we'll sing
Of the songs that last forever
