Like shadows on the wall You come and you go Through the streets And the rain that falls down On our sin No more good-byes Forever this way Whenever the greatest flame in the world Starts burning This is our life, and our time And nothing, is ever going to break us Now we're on our own Always in your eyes A waking of souls We gaze out on the road That brought us up To this place The signposts never change We'll go where they lead Whenever the day to break us comes We'll not give in This is our life, and our time And nothing, is ever going to break us Now we're on our own This is our place, in our lives And no one can ever change this moment Or pull this mountain to the ground Live the day when the flame is strong Live the day when the flame is strong Come the day when love is gone Take it over, Take it over Live the day when the flame is strong Live the day when the flame is strong Come the day when love is gone Take it over This is our life, and our time And nothing, is ever going to break us Now we're on our own This is our place, in our lives And no one can ever change this moment Or pull this mountain to the ground
