

Love at Second Sight

Rupert Holmes

Here's that rain we've been needing
It's been threatening all day
But as long as we're stranded
There's this game we can play
It's just like amnesia
You pretend to forget
We meet right now
Like we've never met

It's a pleasure to see you
But you're soaked to the skin
Let me stoke up this fire
What's your name? Where you been?
Are you on a vacation?
Funny thing, so am I
This feels so strange
And I can guess why

And it's love at second sight
It's love at second sight
It means so much to me to see you as I did that very first night
To hold you again as I held you and then
To see you in this new light
It's more than first love, it's love at second sight

Let me make you some coffee
Your hair feels like silk
And it smells of the rainfall
Do you take sugar or milk?
If I seem nervous
It's the newness of you
You look so fine
From my point of view

And it's love at second sight
It's love at second sight
It means so much to me to see you as I did that very first night
To hold you again as I held you and then
To see you in this new light
It's more than first love, it's love at second sight

And it's love at second sight
It's love at second sight
It means so much to me to see you as I did that very first night
To hold you again as I held you and then
To see you in this new light
It's more than first love, it's love at second sight
