

The End

Rupert Holmes

Someone is out there
Someone who loves you
Though you don't know their name
Both of your lives move closer
You don't know now just how close you came

All that you felt with
All that you dealt with
Wasn't a crime or sin
All the last year was simply to clear the way
For this day
We begin

At the end of your rope but now you find hope
On what was a dead end street
This is the end of loves who pretend
They've helped you to make ends meet

End of confusion every conclusion
Brings you a second chance
It's the end of the dance
You're not going home alone

Someone is out there
Someone who loves you
Someone you have always known

All you have been through
All lead you here to the start
To a love, a friend
Happily ever after the story is done
We begun
And we start
At the end
