

2000, another shattered vision: the human race our self-destruct button has been pressed are we acting on morals a malfunction of minds lacking decisive control are filled with a tv sense of life we can live with no regrets this ride's not over yet stand together, if not we fall

stand together, if not we fall how can we change the paradigm of social caste when the victims are the same ones who slave for the corporations this episode's resolving and we can change it a revolution's calling and i'd like to think that i'm not alone are we all alone in this greed, war we can't afford to prune in this selfish agenda of politicians but we've gotta get paid i know just try to do what we can for us syntax error, reprogram, reprogram all systems down, but we can change it

are we all alone in this
are we all alone