

What Would I've Become

Ryan Bingham

What would I've become if I
Never had to fight and stand
What would I've become if I
Hadn't run when I had the chance

What would I've become if I
Had never left my country home
Would I have dared to bend my mind
And jump off into the world

Would I find love
Would I lose myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead
Would I find truth
Would I test myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead

What would I've become if I
Never had to pay my dues
Would I have dared to say goodbye
If I had had a little more to lose

What would I've become if I
Had never struck out on my own
Would I be standin' here tonight
Singin' in a Honky Tonk

Would I find love
Would I lose myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead
Would I find truth
Would I test myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead

What would I've become if I
Never had to fight and stand
What would I've become if I
Hadn't run when I had the chance

What would I've become if I
Had never left my country home
Would I have dared to bend my mind
And jump off into the world

Would I find love
Would I lose myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead
Would I find truth
Would I test myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead

Would I find truth
Would I test myself
Maybe I'd never known
What was laid upon that road ahead
