

Sweet Thing

Sarah Blackwood

well I hopped onto the train to play that wild western game and to the sunset the wind whispers your name oh please don't cry little darling as I walk right through that door cause I won't be coming around for you no more your tired eyes have whimpered one last time don't let me in this life ain't gonna forgive all my sins so say goodbye and close your eyes and think of me tonight as you look upon the skyline closing in well our love is sacred I won't forget

every moment from the day that we first met oh you'll be there in my dreams every time I lay my head oh sweet thing don't forget a word I said dream someday faraway may see your face again with a kiss our broken hearts will start to mend we'll ride lose sight keep holding tight it's just around the bend keep going right off this earth's here end

that we first met
yea you'll be there in my dreams
every time I lay my head

every time I lay my head
