

Lay down some general outlines guiding principals but one thing we dont need is the ten commandments on how to be accepted into a movement that claims to be free from any order of hierarchy so why not let this be a place to relax and make life seem a little less mundane leave room for improvement! diversity! if we build up walls to surround ourselves and keep on preaching to the converted soon this movement will be deserted there will be no one left to read the statements im not saying this is only entertainment but how do you expect to reach out to people with a different point of view or expose unaware kids to something new if they dont feel welcome 'cause they dont agree with everything you say and do lets not make this an exclusive club for the self-proclaimed pre-eminent few.
