

The Last Thing We'll Ever Do

SayWeCanFly

I just want to breathe you in tonight.
You take up every thought that's in my mind,
so take another breath and close your eyes.
Kiss me like it's the last thing we'll ever do.

We could slow dance beneath the moon and count the fireflies surrounding me and you as they light up your already sparkling, dazzling, hazel eyes.
And there's something in the air, some kind of angel dust I swear,
and it's making me crazy, about you, about us.

I just want to breathe you in tonight.
You take up every thought that's in my mind,
so take another breath and close your eyes.
Kiss me like it's the last thing we'll ever do.

I thought butterflies waiting til summertime's do come around, but I was so wrong.
They are hiding and flying on every cloud of the blue sky that you bring along with you, every time I kiss you,
and it's making me crazy, about you, about us.

I just want to breathe you in tonight.
You take up every thought that's in my mind,
so take another breath and close your eyes.
Kiss me like it's the last thing we'll ever do.
Cause I just want to breathe you in tonight.
You take up every thought that's in my mind,
so take another breath and close your eyes.
Kiss me like it's the last thing we'll ever do.

And I just want to breathe you in tonight.
You take up every thought that's in my mind,
so take another breath and close your eyes.
Kiss me like it's the last thing we'll ever do.