Sailors Blue

Seabear

I saw the lion on the elephant's back (Crawling forever)
I heard your name in a book
Saw your face in a map

And now I hear your name every where I go But I'm the quiet, polar, quiet, bear Making blankets for the dead

And after you make up with the ghost Do stop the blood running from your nose

And the snow is falling hard down On this old window I thought that summer was near But what do I know?

The taste on your lips
The lead in your eyelids
The sea under the boat
My hands in your raincoat

When I shoot this rock
But get the sailor's blues in a maze
(Try again)

I think I'll sleep in this ghost town For a while if you don't mind (Go unpack your bag)
