

What You've Become

Sevendust

Alive and wide awake, I wipe the dirt away
I pick up the pieces and I'm searching for a new day
I lost a part of me, a dying empathy
Peel back the skin again and tell me what you see
You know

Let me breathe let me move along
I never believe this meant anything, so what
What's the difference, I'm dying on the inside
But what you don't know, there was life there at all

Can you feel me moving on

Don't you lie to me, I said it before
Cant take anymore
I had to see, just what you've become
You thought you could fake it

They all want my blood, my life, my soul
You never believed I'd feel anything oh no
Whats the difference, I'm screaming for a life line
What we all know theres no one

All we've lost, we still find away to get thorough
The bitter and cold
We are the only thing left to cling to
When its all said and done

Don't you lie to me, I said it before
Cant take anymore
I had to see, just what you've become
You thought you could fake it