

Your Love Carries Me

Shane Filan

When the day is finally over
And I've walked along this road
When I'm tired of searching for the answers
You are the truth that leads me home

I can hear the voice of angels
Everytime I take your hand
Through the troubled times you guide me
The precious earth on which I stand

You are the hope on my horizon
You are the light so I can see
And in the darkest hour when I have fallen
You are the love that carries me

For the voice that I've been given
For each blessing I'll receive
In the grace of your creation
You give everything to me

You are the hope on my horizon
You are the light so I can see
And in the darkest hour when I have fallen
You're still the love that carries me

And in the darkest hour when I have fallen
You're still the love that carries me
