

Something Good

Shannon Brown

There are moments that I am unable to breathe
The pain is strangling me
I shake my fist at the sky then fall down on my knees
Screaming, "How can this be!"

I think that I'd rather die
Than go on feeling so bad, so sad, so mad

Then I remember how I felt when you'd smile
And I remember we had it all for a while
Just when I think, I can't face one more day
And go on, the way I should
I remember, I remember something good

Piece by piece is how I gather my broken heart
The jagged edges are sharp
I can't look in your eyes, I can't feel your sweet touch
And it's tearing me up

Every minute that I'm here is one more
Without you, I need you, why you'

Then I remember how you'll always live inside me
And I remember it's your love that carries me
Just when I think, I can't face one more day
And go on the way I should
I remember, I remember something good

Just when I think I can't face one more day
And go on the way I should
I remember, I remember something good

I remember something good
Like those dark brown eyes
Your so sweet smile
Your gentle touch, oh, I miss you so much
