

Change Is On The Way

Shawn Colvin

Cold nights, warm hands
Mountains, flat lands
Your face
Nothing gets erased
And I feel like a change is on the way

Once you held my hand
Wasn't long I saw you drift like sand
I guess nothing
Nothing stays the same
And I feel like a change is on the way

Well I fought so hard
Made myself a fool
Like a child I held my breath
Till I was blue
You left me anyway
You could feel a change was on the way

Every sin you confess
The measure of every breath
Rise and fall and then rest
For awhile

The sky will fall
Peace will come
I'll get over you
And I guess even the sun
Will burn itself out one day
And I feel like a change is on the way
