

Torn Between You And The Sky

Shyne

I feel bruised by the inside vibes
I'm on the outside of this beautiful day
And the road that winds it's way through the diamond lakes
Forests, hills, and seagulls belong to you on the inside vibes
I'm on the outside of your world

I'm so surprised, shocked, confused
Caught between the topsoil and the stones, like my mind
As I run and hide across it's surface
I'm looking for a way to heal this jagged heart

Torn between you and the sky. I'm calling you
Touching where the tearing is, out on the edge
Tasting for my truth. Torn between you and the sky
Caught between you and the sky

I'm charging forward, crashing through the thickets in my way
As I search the hills, the roads between, worlds unseen
Anything to calm my stormy panic as I finally get
Just how much I love you

I remember the beach, you on the rocks
I'm running away to find myself, to calm the tears in my heart
And touch the source of life that's all that keeps me sane
When I look back to see your body glowing in the sun
Are you leaving now? You're tearing me up

Torn between you and the sky. I'm calling you
Touching where the tearing is, out on the edge
Beyond the mile. Torn between you and the sky
Caught between you and the sky

Dya day a dum (6x)

I'm so surprised, shocked, confused caught between the topsoil and you
