

Sin & Redemption

Silverstein

We kill time with sleep and heal
the heartache of thousands,
at the cost of ruining ourselves
Take it for granted.
We hone skills of cons and steal
the same hearts and bodies.
On our knees we're begging to be by ourselves,
but only in our heads.
Only in our heads.

You're laying down in front of me,
completely unaware I'm fantasizing
about everything I want,
and everything you're not,
we're screaming at the top of our lungs
but only in our heads.
Only in our heads.
Only in our heads.