

Dyin' to Live

Smallpools

Sinkin' down
Just a little bit
Now I'm climbing up the hourglass
Here we go
And I wonder
Have I lost my mind?
I was having a- I was having a meltdown
But I don't know why
Cause I sleep four-eyed
And I eat just fine
I'm not scared of being a lonely man
Or even dying, just missing out
Just missing out

It's not much to ask for
We're only trying just to feel alright
We're only trying just to find that steady love
We're only trying just to buy some time
We're all just dying, we're all just dying to live

I settled down, just a little bit
I'm frozen in a photograph
With a coat on
And I wonder
Do I look alright?
Does it matter? No!
All the faces will fade out
But I don't know why
Cause I sleep four-eyed
And I eat just fine
And I'm not scared of being a lonely man
Or even dying, just missing out
Just missing out

It's not much to ask for
We're only trying just to feel alright
We're only trying just to find that steady love
We're only trying just to buy some time
We're all just dying, we're all just dyin' to live

We're all just dyin' to live
I know there's something better
I can not fight what's falling apart
I'll get myself together
Together
My shield of rusted metal
Can't keep this world from falling apart
So let's tear this down together
Together

It's not much to ask for
We're all just dyin', we're all just dyin' to live

We're all just dyin' to live
Find that steady love
We're all just dyin' to live
