I want to live my life, live it my own way over throw the shame
, the shame you dealt brought me to my knees always trying to please you instead of living for me, you say you say you know what's best for me time change the time has come for me to change and you controlled my dreams, i never asked you and i never agreed to your requests goal destinies i abandoned you and now im free, now i, i live my life live it my own way forget yesterday no expectations just my ambitions identity the choice is up to me
