

Just A Game

Socialburn

As you licked your lips, I fell inside you
Inside your mind, inside you I knew
That I could never be the man that you wanted
And you would never see, all I had to offer
And sometimes I feel like I'm gonna break
And sometimes I feel like you a mistake
And I look into your eyes

And it's all just a game
I never felt soo strange
And it's all just a game
Did you even know my name
It's all just a game, and it's all just a game
But it took two years, on my own, to finally find you
Now you've shown
But I would rather die, inside, than let you see
That part of me
But sometimes I feel like I'm gonna break
And sometimes I feel like you're a mistake
And I look into your eyes

And it's all just a game(all just a game)
I never felt soo strange
And it's all just a game
Did you even know my name
It's all just a game, and it's all just a game

Damn girl, why you messin' with my feelins
When I'm just tryin' to show you a little sexual healin' Why'd you play me like that, I thought we coulda been a perfect match
You threw my clothes out the window with my heart attached
Just snapped my soul in two and just threw it all
It my all to stop callin' you, and now we're through It'll never be the same, but I know to you that it's all just a game
