

A Bullet Left for You

Solar Fake

You said it will get better, so I pretend that time would matter
And I don't plan to hurt you, but I don't really care what is true
I feel like I'm asking for something everlasting
But what I need is just a reason to stay here

I followed directions, you tried to sell perfection
It seems I'm still waiting for something innovating
So meantime I won't hide, I'll have a drink upon your pride
'cause it will keep you moving far out of sight

I don't miss you at all, I'll just hang up if you call
No more words I could say, I woke up on another day
I don't miss you at all, I'll be watching as you fall
No escape, no way through, but I'll keep a bullet left for you

You took all my secrets, you always fed my weakness
You tried to contain me as you pretend to save me
But you couldn't persuade me, 'cause you have always failed me
Yet all I need is just somebody to lead me out

You've benumbed me of all I could feel
Have I become just an addict of the pain
You don't dare show your face anymore
You're the place in my heart for the pain