Solar Fake

Should we care for insincerity While we are floating away And the faces pass us by

Should we care for this insanity Destroying fears anyway When curing is just a fake When all desire is denied

Will we mind the instability When hurting eyes can see And cruelty overflows

Changing shapes, resembling constancy But hiding at home in bed Thinking aloud but speaking silently

All you need is Lies
Retouching all your tears, ideas will rise, you'll overcome the years with
Lies
Retouching all your fears and you will rise
And overcome the tears

Purging out the rigid old beliefs
And realise what's new Never justify yourself
If you could gain fame enough
To beg for understanding
But you'd never really care