Seasick

Something for Kate

You make it look so easy
You seem to fit inside your own skull so comfortably
But I haven't been myself lately
And thank you
The pressure has been all mine
As I wait for my pulse to catch up with me

If I could leave here today then I would
If I could change my face and my name then I would
If I could run to some technicolour place then I would
If I could learn from my mistakes then I would

The lights come back on
And what has my imagination done for me lately
I sit in this chair
Concentrating on a crack in the ceiling
And thank you, thank you
The pressure has been all mine
As I wait for my breath to catch up with me

If I could see with your eyes then I would

If I could leave here today then I would
If I could change my face and my name then I would
If I could run to some technicolour place then I would
If I could learn from my mistakes then I would

You make it look so easy
You make me
Seasick

If I could leave here today then I would
If I could run then I would
If I could learn then I would
If I could fly then I would
