Move to the Music

Sophie Ellis-Bextor

The summer's I dance till morning
The heartache and sleepless nights
The party's and lover's calling
Days when nothing went right
These moments have made me
Though I am today...

All of my yesterdays The highs and lows of but I can still Move to the Music the journey that I've made, all those emotions but I can still move while the music plays within a new today now that I've grown up to oh I can still move to the music I won't be one to say that I regret a moment 'cos I can still move while the music plays A cross word, a bruise, a memory Some presence and too much wine The days when it rained and thundered When your heart found mine These moments have made me Though I am today...
