

Don't ever think i can't get through you do you know what i'm capable of do you really think that you know me well finding an emptiness in front of you it's a loss that has been found
do you really think that you know me well you got to slip inside my soul can you feel what i feel do you see why i don't bother now you got to sleep inside my soul can you see what i see do you the fight that's raging in me i never took the chances i wanted to i always lived my life through you

do you really think that you know me well but you turned it around and threw it back to me now a void is left inside
do you really think that you know me well

you ignite my violence