The Flowers Of Bermuda

Stan Rogers

He was the Captain of the Nightingale Twenty-one days from Clyde in coal He could smell the flowers of Bermuda in the gale When he died on the North Rock shoal

Just five short hours from Bermuda, In a fine October gale There came a cry "Oh, there be breakers dead ahead!" From the collier Nightingale

No sooner had the Captain brought her round, Came a rending crash below Hard on her beam ends, groaning, went the Nightingale And overside her mainmast goes

"Oh, Captain, are we all for drowning?" Came the cry from all the crew "The boats be smashed! How then are we all to be saved? They are stove in through and through!"

"Oh, are ye brave and hardy collier-men Or are ye blind and cannot see? The Captain's gig still lies before ye whole and sound, It shall carry all o' we."

Here we go! He was the Captain of the Nightingale Twenty-one days from Clyde in coal He could smell the flowers of Bermuda in the gale When he died on the North Rock shoal

But when the crew was all assembled And the gig prepared for sea, 'Twas seen there were but eighteen places to be manned Nineteen mortal souls were we

But cries the Captain "Now do not delay, Nor do ye spare a thought for me. My duty is to save you all now, if I can. See ye return as quick as can be."

Oh, there be flowers in Bermuda Beauty lies on every hand, And there be laughter, ease and drink for every man, But there is no joy for me

For when we reached the wretched Nightingale What an awful sight was plain! The Captain, drowned, was tangled in the mizzen-chains Smiling bravely beneath the sea

He was the Captain of the Nightingale
