

Holding You

Stan Walker

It's no surprise that we ain't in heaven
We're on the earth
But you, you meet me in my darkest cover
Can't count what you've worked

'Cause baby, when the waves crash over me
Baby, when the skies turn crazy
You're the only one that I want next to me, me

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you

We ain't in a prefect world
We used to bring the stars out
Used to freak my heart out

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky
I'm lucky to be holding you

Thought I would always be alone
Then you, you walked in like a dream
Your smile, shine brighter than the sun to me
Your heart is next to mine

'Cause baby, when the waves crash over me
Baby, when the skies turn crazy
You're the only one that I want next to me, me

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you

We ain't in a prefect world
We used to bring the stars out
Used to freak my heart out

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky
I'm lucky to be holding you

And I know
I know
What we've got is far greater than a dream
You become my everything

I know
I know

We ain't perfect but I want you everyday
Could I be that lucky

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you

We ain't in a perfect world
We used to bring the stars out
Used to break my heart out

With every passing second
Every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky
I'm lucky to be holding you

Baby
Holding you
Yeah, yeah, ay
Yeah, yeah, ay
I'm holding you, yeah
