

10am once again and you're giving me the run around
I heard you said in your head that you wanna hear a different sound
The sun was hot but you were so cold
We were too young for this to be getting old
And you taste the same
We've been led astray

Thought that I realized that I'm not on my own again
Is it bad that I'm sad but I just don't know why yet
I was looking up, you were looking down
You were breathing in, but I was fading out
Now you can't deny
So I'll ask why

When will my love just be enough?
When will my love not be a crutch?
If it's not for you
Then I hope someone feels the way that I do
When will my love just be enough?

You used to smile with your eyes but there's no shine anymore
There's a pain that's replaced the magic that was there before
Now I'm caught up in the middle
Between a hard place that should be simple
I've lost the words to say
But decided what's best for me

When will my love just be enough?
When will my love not be a crutch?
If it's not for you
Then I hope someone feels the way that I do
When will my love just be enough?

Now I'm caught up in the middle
Between a hard place that should be simple
It should be simple

When will my love just be enough?
When will my love not be a crutch?
If it's not for you
Then I hope someone feels the way that I do
When will my love just be enough?