

Give It Half A Chance

Stephanie Mills

I wake up
In the middle of a dream
To an unfamiliar scene
Wonder what I fell into

Who knows why
People look for alibis
In a passing stranger's eyes
What am I supposed to do

So tonight
Tell me that you love me, tonight
The only way to know is to try
Give it half a chance

And the glow
From the bathroom down the hall
Lights a mirror on a wall
Where a stranger stares at me

Hello stranger, where you been?
Do you still remember when?
Well, every heartache has an end
And maybe yours is on the way

So tonight
Tell me that you love me, tonight
The only way to know is to try
Give it half a chance

One by one
Let the nights go on
And you won't need yesterday beside you
See yourself in love again
And believe in the arms you're in tonight
Try

Give it half a chance
Give it half a chance
Tell me
That you love me, babe
That you need me, babe

Tell me that you love
Tell me
Tell me that you love
Lean on love and love will grow

Give it just half a chance
Lean on love and love will grow
Give it just half a chance
Lean on love and love will grow

Give it just half a chance
Lean on love and love will grow
