So Begins the Task

Stephen Stills

And so begins the task I have dreaded the coming of For so long I wait for the sun To remind my body It needs restin'

And I must learn to live without you now I must learn to give only part some how

Camping on the edge Of your city I wait Hoping someday You might See Beyond yourself The shadows on the ceiling Hard But not real Like the bars that cage You within yourself

And I must learn to live without you now I must learn to give only part some how And I must learn to without you now As I cannot learn to give only part some how

All of these cages Must And shall be set aside They will only Keep Us from the knowing Actors And stages Now fall before the truth As they love Shared Between us Remains ... Growing

And I must learn to without you now As I cannot learn to give only part some how