

Natural History

Steve Wariner

Sometimes in the morning light
The sun hits your face just right
And I realize
I'm where I need to be
Here with you everyday
Sometimes it's hard to say
What you mean to me

But you and I make natural history
Sometimes love is more than a mystery
You and I make natural history

When I'm away from you
There's trouble to get into
But you know by now
That's not what I'm looking for
And some people think that love
Is nothing but making love
But it's so much more

You and I make natural history
Sometimes love is more than a mystery
You and I make natural history

You and I make natural history
Sometimes love is more than a mystery
You and I make natural history
You and I make natural history
