

Now That You're Alive

Steve Winwood

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you keep my eyes forever

And your drug will keep you up at night
And your drug will mix you up
You don't love enough

Keep my eyes open wide
Even though you're tired
While you justify
What you've self-prescribed

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
You indulge your fix
And then you're chasing another

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you can't deny forever

So that love can wake you up at night
So that love can heal your soul
You can love enough

Please close your eyes tonight
There's no need to cry
You can free your mind
Now that you're alive
Free your mind

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you keep my eyes forever

And your drug will keep you up at night
And your drug will mix you up
You don't love enough

Keep my eyes open wide
Even though you're tired
While you justify
What you've self-prescribed