Now That You're Alive

Steve Winwood

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession

Well, you can run, run And move away from But you keep my eyes forever

And your drug will keep you up at night And your drug will mix you up You don't love enough

Keep my eyes open wide Even though you're tired While you justify What you've self-prescribed

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
You indulge your fix
And then you're chasing another

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you can't deny forever

So that love can wake you up at night So that love can heal your soul You can love enough

Please close your eyes tonight There's no need to cry You can free your mind Now that you're alive Free your mind

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession

Well, you can run, run And move away from But you keep my eyes forever

And your drug will keep you up at night And your drug will mix you up You don't love enough

Keep my eyes open wide Even though you're tired While you justify What you've self-prescribed