Into The Black Hole We have reached our first destination: the black hole in the Vi rgo cluster of galaxies. But what will we find inside? Its power is immeasurable. Our ho pes and fears intermingle as we stand at the event horizon. Will its doorway transport us to our faraway planet Earth, or will its f ury mercilessly tear us apart? A dark sphere surrounds us Surreal...oblivious... In the centre of the galaxy A hidden force has found us Powerful...mysterious... At the boundary of eternity Nothing escapes, not even light Beyond the mystical horizon We surrender to its might Gazing into the eye of the universe A deep roar is sounding Deafening...thunderous... As if the universe were crying My heart is pounding Frantic...delirious... My every nerve is dying I hear screams of fallen souls, sad cries of agony Within the void of this evil hole, deep inside the black Could it be my imagination, the mirror of my fantasy? A fear-induced hallucination Or is there no way back from the halo of darkness? Spirits - apparitions - misery - suffering Horrid dreams and dire visions rising up from the black Look away in disbelief, this cannot be happening The end has come, I bow in grief There is no way back from the halo of darkness Now silence devours us Massive...suffocating... The calm before the storm Gravity overpowers us Invincible...dominating...

And leads us through the final door

Feed me light, I'm the halo of darkness Feel my might, I'm the eye of the universe