

It Ends Happily

Stroke 9

Head back and eyes to the sky
When you ask me who's to blame
I wander round in the dead of night
Now, nothing is the same
Everybody wants to tell your story
But they don't even know your name
I won't lie, I would give it a try
If I knew what was happening

I never knew this crazy world would smother me
It can't be true if everything ends happily
It ends happily

You just showed up with barely any
Good news to talk about
You never thought anybody
Would ever figure out
Your mind was never open
All corridors were closed
And I just sat there hopin'
I'm not the only one who knows

I never knew this crazy world would smother me
It can't be true if everything ends happily
It ends happily

I'm in a high rise apartment downtown
I'm in a subway car riding round
To the last stop on the West Side of Manhattan in the rain
I'm on a neverending flight to Spain
I'm at a rooftop bar in Hollywood
Bored as hell, 'cause everyone's the same

It ends happily
It ends happily
It ends happily
It ends happily
It ends happily
