Two Against Many

Supreme Majesty

Two men stand upon a solemn hill The wind smell fresh before the storm Fear's not present in their valiant minds Thoughts on glory and to kill

Tonight, they won't give up without a fight They will revenge and show their might Two against many, soon the victory's won Tonight, they won't give up without a fight They will revenge and show their might Two against many, let the demons be gone

There won't be no tales about this day A silent prayer to his god Battle evil in the form of snakes Takes a will of steel to slay