

Critical Mass

Sybreed

Circumstances seem so fool : it's what I think about
As the morning come on a new fuckin' day
Exactly the same as the day before
The day before you leave the place
To go thousand miles away from me

I fall so down , in a pool of memories
Drowned deep into my regrets and suffering

Tell me why I have to stay alone to face this fuckin' pain
I guess you've tried , but nothing replace the emptiness
Now you're gone , there's only tears that now remain into my heart
I will exchange my soul just to see you one more time

And I can see the gun , shining so bright
I can feel the hole
The shadows covering your eyes as your body die
The blood shed on the floor , and this vision makes me sick
I couldn't expect this will end in tears

I fall so down , in a pool of memories
Drowned deep into my regrets and suffering

Tell me why I have to stay alone to face this fuckin' pain
I guess you've tried , but nothing replace the emptiness
Now you're gone , there's only tears that now remain into my heart
I will exchange my soul just to see you one more time

I am condemned to realize , to stand alone with my weakness
and fears
Reality fall to pieces , my mind is bleeding , I've lost the will to live now

Why ? ... god ... destruction ... salvation ... destruction

I am condemned to realize , to stand alone with my weakness
and fears
Reality fall to pieces , my mind is bleeding , I've lost the will to live

Tell me why I have to stay alone to face this fuckin' pain
I guess you've tried , but nothing replace the emptiness
Now you're gone , there's only tears that now remain into my heart
I will exchange my soul just to see you one more time