Running Away

Terranova

You must have done something wrong Why can't you find a place where you belong Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running, running away Every man feels like his burden is the heaviest Every man feels like his burden is the heaviest Who feels he knows it lord ? Who feels he knows it lord ? Who feels he knows it lord ? Running, running Running, running, running away Running, running Running, running Running, running, running away Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running Running, running, running away
