Everyday Now

I just woke up and I can see it now It's never been this close before Tried to tell myself I didn't care Crying out why am I here There's no point in me hiding And only now I can see

Everyday now Everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me

Something deep inside said move away Try to leave what's good behind And I still ask myself Why I let it go All these years were wasted time There's no point in me hiding And only now I can see

Everyday now Everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me

Cause I never told you That I could never live without it Now the blame's on me

Everyday now Everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me

Everyday now Everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me Texas
