

Killing On Empty

The Acacia Strain

And I dream in black and white and red. The last time I saw you , your head was on a spike, still screaming her name. Still cursing the day that I was born. Yet nothing has changed. Or do I still ask you for help? No. Then stop asking me for forgiveness
, because I cannot bleed until my dreams come true