

Walking Wounded

The Beautiful Mistake

We lit the match, dropped it and waited Just to see how beautiful, and painful it could be It's funny how clear, your eyes get from crying It's funny how clean, your life gets from dying.

we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart

Been at the bottom, soared to the sun
Just to see how beautiful
and painful it could be Wings that were ours, broken from trying Wings that were ours, melted from flying

we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart

we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
all we want is shelter
from the times that bring us down.
we know your sleeves are long,
waiting on an answer
just to be protected
from the doubt thats in our heart