The Beautiful South

Close your legs, open your mind Leave those compliments well behind Dig a little deeper into yourself And you may find

Come over here just sit right down
Needn't comb your hair, needn't pout or frown
I hear you've turned our young men
Into dribbling clowns

36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got? 36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got?

Make their day and go ahead Remove your clothes lie on their bed Just a last gasp chance or an outside bet To the easily led

And before you do just what you do Here' one thought for you to chew The men who run the business that you sell They screw you too

36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got? 36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got?

You're just another 365 night stand But you're so handy, you're so handy You cheapen and you nasty every woman in this land But you're so handy, you're so handy

Your picture's hanging pretty on the squaddies' walls You're Steven's, Andy's, you're Ian's, you're Paul's Your body's thought of fondly in the rugby mauls But you want more

36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got?

36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got?

36D so what (D) so what Is that all that you've got?

36D so what (D) so what
Is that all that you've got?
He was trying to save his job
He was, he was trying to save his job.