Denounced, Disgraced

The Black Dahlia Murder

Traitor! How you've betrayed our blood
Broken the bond that had set us apart
From this world so unforgiving
Can it be true that I once walked through fires with you
Forced to cut you down just another enemy
The road long fought to victory
Cancerous poisoning anchored by this weakest link
Turn your lying face in utter shame
Denounced, disgraced

We bury you now still while you breathe
Dead as the void that you've left here in me
Deeper and deeper spent memories
Cremating all that would bear your disease
An end is what you wanted, the end is what you'll receive Onward into battle forever we soldier unflinchingly undying and free

Forced to cut you down just another enemy stripped of immortali ty

Cancerous poisoning how the smallest violin does sing

As the obituarist cries out your cursed name

Now as the towers fall crumbling at our feet

Lay down your sword you must answer to me

Leper, banished to be We punish your treason unmercifully Liar, ears deaf to your pleas There'll be no remorse - no sympathy. Bleed!

That very blade which lead you to battle in defense of our name Shall cut a red ring 'round your throat

To little too late the flood waters break

While you've dared to call down the most savage of storms

Violent reprisal written in blood

To so cruelly be made an example of

To so cruelly be made an example of

This is war revenge has been sworn

Ha! As the towers fall crumbling at your feet

Lay down your sword you must answer to me

Now! Impaled pariah disown your majesty

Your grave been not welcome here amidst the halls of elite