I Will Return

The Black Dahlia Murder

When death so swiftly has coveted The client from this plane A journey forged in ice has just begun A crystal line entombment preservation now awaits Proceedings executed hastely deceased to be encased Encapsulated ensured the precious cargo safe A pending resurrection rebirth

In the distant future when advancements shall allow A being to be made again anew The brain to be implanted Fused within a growth of cells This vessel but a vehicle To traverse this mortal realm

Pressurized sealed in ward off the mounting days Retain revived rebirthed beyond the grave

Jealousy some say it sickening They merely can't afford this highest form of luxury To live again To carry on the will elite To live again Advancing through the centuries

Until the sky is black and the sun it never shows Til the whipping winds of nuclear winter cruelly blow The gift of immortality has been bestowed I will return, I will return

Cryonics! Reanimate this life Remake the fleshy juggernaut In which the mind will ride Cryonics! A wisdom is preserved Frozen forever evolutionary curve O a renaissance of mad technology Segregate the wise eliminate the weak O painstaking process onward we weed Reproduce the strong eliminate

Heresy some say its blasphemy Assuring I'll be in hell when god is through with me To live again to forge yourself anew To live again to face the godless truth Foolery some say it'll never be Fear will condemn such radical ideology To live again to stand above your brood To live again the phoenix raised unbruised